CORDIALLY INVITE YOU TO

The 31st International Scientific Conference

“Educational Research and School Practice“
ICCS 2022: RESULTS AND IMPLICATIONS

- Faculty of Education (Belgrade) -
December 6, 2024

The Aim of the Conference

The aim of the conference is to explore the critical role of Civic and Citizenship Education in preparing individuals for active and responsible participation in today's complex and rapidly changing societies. The discussion will focus on the importance and characteristics of Civic and Citizenship Education, including its essential elements such as democratization, interpersonal communication and participation in various contexts (school, community, and global).

The conference will be an opportunity to:

- Present results from the secondary analysis of the international ICCS 2022 (International Civic and Citizenship Education Study)
- Engage in broader discussions on crucial topics relevant to modern societies, including:
 1. Democracy, parliamentarism and citizenship: how young people perceive the political system
 2. Democratization in school practice: interpersonal relations, school climate and school culture
 3. Participation, engagement and creating a motivating context for the development of civic activism inside and outside the school
 4. Digital technologies and media literacy in modern educational systems and societies
 5. Trust, attitudes on civic issues and value orientations among young people
 6. Social diversity in education: inclusion, gender equality and minority human rights
 7. Environmental, social and economic sustainability

We encourage submissions from researchers, educators and policymakers from all sectors (academia, education, government, and NGOs) to share their empirical findings, theoretical insights, and practical experiences related to these themes.
